Overview

How much does it cost to replace a car battery?

The average cost of replacing a car battery is $120. However, actual costs range between $40 and $250 depending on the group size, cold cranking amps, reserve capacity, etc. In addition, if you have a mechanic install the battery for you instead of doing the work yourself, you'll pay around $30 in labor.

How much does it cost to install a high voltage battery?

Along with the battery itself, you'll need to pay a certified mechanic to install the high-voltage battery. The job often takes a few hours, and sometimes more than a full day. Labor prices range from around $500 to $1,500 but could be higher based on where you reside and the repair shop you choose.

How do you replace a battery?

Carefully lift out the old battery. Look for any corrosion on the cables and remove it with a wire brush or terminal cleaning tool. Drop in the new battery so that the positive post lines up with the red cable. Secure it with the battery retaining clamp that you removed earlier.

How much does an EV battery replacement cost?

We reached out to five mechanics and technicians from different parts of the U.S. to see how much an EV battery replacement costs for different vehicles, and the average results ranged from $4,489 all the way to a staggering $17,658.

Can a car battery be replaced?

The first few times it happens, you can try using jumper cables to start the vehicle anyway. But, if your vehicle's battery is no longer storing enough power, you'll eventually have to replace it. Luckily, car batteries are easy to replace, and you can normally get back up and running with no help from a mechanic.

How do I connect a dead battery to a good battery?

Attach one of the red clips to the positive terminal on your dead battery and the other red clip to the red POS post on the good battery. If you need help figuring out which terminal is which, look for “POS” or “+”. Attach the black clip to the negative (“NEG” or “-”) terminal of the good battery.
