

Swaziland double-glass module factory

Overview

Is Ngwenya Glass a good place to shop in Swaziland?

A place to learn and shop! Ngwenya Glass is definitely a must do in Swaziland, particularly for those traveling from South Africa via the nearby border crossing. We had seen their products displayed at craft markets in South Africa and had long planned to visit. The facility is well sign-posted and easy to find.

Why should you visit a glassblower factory in Swaziland?

Watch our glassblowers creating wonderful african animal figurines and tableware using 100% recycled glass, from an overhead balcony. Feel the heat of the furnace and understand why we say we are the HOTTEST attraction in Swaziland. Our well stock showroom is attached to the factory and there is a coffee shop offering light meals.

Who are Swazi glassblowers?

Started in 1979 by Swedish Aid. They built the factory, imported all the machinery and equipment and employed and trained Swazi's in the age old art of glassblowing. Two of the most talented were sent over to Sweden to be trained by some of the leading glassblowers in the world.
